

Our cable company is apparently regulated only by its own motives. We have satellite TV and when we asked the Cable company to remove their cable connection to our house they responded by 1) leaving the cable connection dangling from the power pole to the ground where it blows in the wind, and 2) installing a large box on the cable passing our property. No local authority is available to resolve these issues for us.